

2019 Jordan Why Not Zer0.2 OKC Home AO6219-100

Posted by x79460121@gmail.com - 27 Feb 2019 12:07

New Air Jordans 2019, Russell Westbrook's current signature shoe, the Jordan Why Not Zer0.2, will officially be releasing in an upcoming "OKC Home" colorway. Dressed in a White, Total Crimson, Blue Lagoon, and Signal Blue color scheme. This release stays true to the OKC colors having a White-based upper highlighted with Blue and Orange accents.

Nike Shoes is gearing up for the warmer months ahead, and adding to their spring/summer lineup is a brand new React Element 55 highlighted with vibrant accents. Dressed in Black, Flash Crimson, Hyper Crimson, and Volt color scheme. This Nike React Element 55 feature a Black patterned upper with Volt and Crimson accents throughout. Reflective detailing on the lower eyestay atop a White React foam sole completes the design.

Retro Jordan, Coming dressed in a Sprite-like color scheme is an upcoming release of Nike's favorite chunky silhouette, the M2K Tekno. While majority of the shoe is covered in Black with White underlays, matching stitched Swoosh logo and tongues. Highlighting the shoe are Royal and Volt accents, completed with a Sail thick midsole atop a Black rubber outsole.

=====